

JINX, AT LEAST, WON'T BEAT COX

He Winds Up Campaign at Toledo to Get Around Ancient Hoodoo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Governor Cox in his last speech of the campaign here tonight summarized his arguments for the league of nations. He predicted victory for himself, not as the representative of a party, but as the leader of a cause.

The governor also renewed his attack on Senator Harding on the League issue, declaring the republican candidate was "shouting and wobbling" and the senator's election meant "controversy and confusion." The governor had been invited here by special train early in the evening from Dayton, and left on the return journey immediately after his speech.

On his way back from Dayton the governor and his party stopped at Deshler, a railroad town, where many had gathered at the station, awaiting the arrival of the delegation of the legislature. Governor Cox responded with a rear-platform speech, a forerunner of his argument here tonight.

Truth in the People. "I have always had faith in the good judgment and patriotism of the American people," said the governor, "and an analysis of our history whenever a moral issue has been presented it has been met with the approval of the American electorate. It rests then upon a great moral issue. It is this one."

The governor had no special address prepared for the meeting here, but if he had, the various arguments he had made in his transcontinental tour of his long campaign. His visit here on election eve was in conformity with a political superstition of party followers here, who say the governor's only defeat in an election was encountered when he failed to end his speech-making in a city. Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Dan Mahoney, daughter of the candidate, accompanied him on his trip to this city.

Dad Weather Hits Him. The governor ran about bad weather here but the big collapse was filled. Congressman Shorewood of this city, one of the veterans born in the house, recommended introducing Governor Cox as "the next president" and the crowd answered with wild applause that continued for a minute. As the crowd ended its greetings, a big floral bouquet, bearing the inscription:

"James M. Cox, our next president, was carried up the stage and presented the candidate. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Extension of immediate credit relief to farmers by executive action, pending the reconvening of congress, was asked of President Wilson today by George P. Hampton of the Farmers' National council. In company with James H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Mechanics, Mr. Hampton called on Secretary Tumulty, who is understood to have promised to present the request to the president at once. It was contained in a letter which said the proposals he presented were endorsed by Mr. Johnston, Bert M. Stetson, American Federation of Labor, W. E. Stone, grand chief, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

AUSTRIA IS SHORT ON FOOD

Vienna Faces Winter With Misgivings, says President.

VIENNA, Oct. 31.—The first touch of winter has awakened Vienna and other Austrian cities to the food and fuel situation which President Siebert today described as "most unfavorable."

While various charities are doing much to relieve conditions the American child feeding fund, with its perfected organization and two years experience, now is feeding daily 300,000 children under 16 years of age and also is supplying 100,000 children with garments and stockings, all of them underwear. The Austrian government is co-operating with the fund.

Some idea of the extent of the work of the relief association may be gained by the fact that 63,000,000 free meals have been distributed to under-nourished Austrian children in 18 months.
